Art und Umfang der Leistung

Refer to procurement documents for details.

The objective of the service contract is to provide EIT Health with a comprehensive and structured analysis of DEI in HEIs, with a focus on innovation-related activities, programmes and institutional practices, within the framework of the EIT HEI. The service provider is expected to deliver an evidence-based understanding of the current state of DEI practices, including the identification of key barriers affecting equitable access to innovation-related opportunities, activities, networks, funding and participation across HEIs. The service combines strategic and analytical support and is outsourced to ensure access to specialised expertise. The service contract will build on existing EIT Community materials, including previous analyses, reports, and good practices, with the objective of consolidating this knowledge base and addressing the current gap in structured, HEI-specific insights on DEI practices within innovation-related activities.
